While there are some discrepancies about the date of Johann Gutenberg's birth, it is certain that he was born about 1410 at Mainz, Germany, (now doers. written Mentz). Last week at Mentz there was a celebration in honor of the live hundreth anniversary of Gutenberg's birth. All the nations of the world were represented there, commemorating the birth of the man who invented the art of printing. He was the first to make wooden type and afserwards cast the first metal type. It s said that for twenty years he applied is energies secretly to the production of moulds for easting metal type; and hat while this was done nearly five hun tred years ago, the essential features f type moulds to-day are about the ame as were those used by Gutenberg at Mainz and Strasburg.

Gutenberg's first book printed from type was the Bible, and this was achieved far on towards the middle of his life. The Archbishop of Mentz in 1486 proclaimed that printing from type and the distribution of books and pamphlets, was the work of the devil and meant the spirtual ruin of the hu-

In a recent number of the Saturday Evening Post there was an interesting article on "Athletics in the future of the nation," by Eugene Lamb Richards It presented the advantageous side of athletic sports, but concluded with the following paragraph on extravagance of such sports: "The tendency to extravagance in expenditure, though not existing to the extent often asserted, does nevertneless exist. The importance of college sport in a financial right will be revealed to many persons who fall to comprehend it in any other way. At Yale the total expenses of all the sports were for the season of 1896-7, $43,625.25; for 1897-8, $64,685.33; for 1898-9 $55,384-24. Since for the seasons of 1897-8 and 1898-9 there were unusual outlays on the athletic field, particularly so in 1897-8, the expesses for 1896-7 would be nearer the average yearly cost of the sports. $43,625.25 represents the interest at four per cent. of an invested capital of $1,090,731.25. How Lincoln Won His Wife.

Thomas Lewis in Leslie's Weekly.

Mr. Lincoln used to take great delight in telling how he gained a knife by his looks. That has been published, but I have not seen another in print telling how he gained his wife. Mrs. Lincoln was a beautiful lady, attractive, sharp, witty and relished s joke even at her own expense. She was staying with her sister, Mrs. Edwards. She had not been there long before everybod; knew Miss Mary Todd. She often said: "When a girl I though I would not marry until I could get one of the handsomest men in '.e country, but since I became a woman I learned I can't get such a man, which has caused me to change my mind. I have concluded now to marry $8.00. the ugliest man I can find."

Later on Lincoln came to the town. She had never seen bim before she met him on the street. She was told who he was .and went home and told her sister she had seen her man, "the ugliest man I eyer saw, Abraham Lincoln, and I am going to set my cup for him."

That became a common saying in the street gossip. When they were ried, instead of taking a bridal trip. they went to Globe hotel, owned by the writer and occupied by a tenant. They took board at $4 a week. When be got able, be bought a lot for $200 and built a four room house; costing less than 1,000. When he received $5,000 from his great railroad case, he spent $1,500 of it in putting a second story on his house, and there be lived until he went to Washington.
